RE: Bobby Solberg

To whom it may concern,

I asked Bobby Solberg to minister in our Sunday Morning service and share his personal testimony of what Christ had done in his life. His very first song was his testimony song of how his dad started him out going to bars when he was just four years old. It was the beginning of trying everything the world had to offer to help him find happiness, but an emptiness filled his life on the inside. When he was twenty-eight he asked God to somehow show him if He was real. The answer to that first prayer, which came in seconds, led him to ask for his first Bible and to seek for a relationship with God. Bobby seemed really authentic and real as he shared his life story. He wasn't concerned with putting on a show or pressuring people in any way, he focused on his own story and sang the songs he wrote about his journey in life and now in Christ. He exhibited a real and humble desire to continue growing in Christ. He did not come across as someone who thinks he has it all together.

I know there are a huge number of people in our world who Bobby can relate to and effectively reach for Christ. He needs the help and support of the church and the church needs his ministry to do it. He's not the typical church type of musician because he still sings in bars and makes a living by entertaining; but, he also takes advantage of the many opportunities he gets to share Christ inside those entertainment places. The people who know him will want to come and hear him in your church.

Yours for Christ,

Pastor Paul Carlson
