

Dear Pastor,

I recently had Bobby Solberg in my church again for the second time and he did a great job of sharing his life and testimony through his music. Bobby did a Wednesday night for our teens and he captivated their attention for an hour. He also did a Sunday morning service where I gave him about 50 minutes. Bobby is a very soft spoken man with a tender and teachable heart who shares the abusive childhood and the lack of self-esteem he grew up with. Alcohol became the drug of choice to compensate for the mental battles he had to face. All of his songs tell the story of passing from darkness into light, from alcoholism into a liberating grace from Christ.

With the teens, Bobby was very up front about how alcohol nearly killed him at several points in his life, and how God freed him totally from his addiction. With the adults, Bobby did a great job of organizing his choice of songs into a story that led many people to the altar. From abuse to inferiority to depression to seeking for God, he described how what Jesus did for him, He could do for them, and our altars were filled with people who could relate to his story or were seeking for Christ's help in some way.

If you are considering having Bobby sing and share his testimony but would like more information, please feel free to give me a call.

Yours for Christ,

Pastor Paul Carlson
